Canadian Glass Standard Can/CGSB-12.3-M91

The following information should be used as a guide in determining whether or not a scratch or defect in the glass surface - between the panes - is to be considered a defect or not. It is in the nature of float glass to contain natural defects or imperfections. Criteria is based on the Canadian General Standards Board for float glass, primary glass suppliers, industry standard of the suppliers for tempered and reflective glass, and ASTM C 1036-06 Standard Specification for Flat Glass.

Inspection Method.

The glass is to be inspected held in a perpendicular position using daylight without direct sunlight (e.g. on an overcast day), or with a background light suitable for observing any imperfections, at a distance of 3 meters (10 feet).

“Normal viewing area” is defined as an ellipse or circle having axes equal to 80% of the height and width dimensions of the glass panel.

Linear Blemishes – scratches, scrapes and other similar imperfections.

Scratches of up to 75 mm (3 inches) in length shall be acceptable if they are not visible at a distance of 3 meters (10 feet).

Scratches visible at 3 meters (10 feet), which are up to 75 mm (3 inches) in length shall be acceptable if within 75 mm (3 inches) of the edges of a lite, or are not within the normal viewing area.

Point Blemishes (reflective and LoE products) – gaseous inclusions, knots, dirt and other similar imperfections.

Pinholes visible at 3 meters (10 feet), which are less than 1.6 mm (1/16 inches) in diameter, shall be acceptable. Large clusters, or close spacing of pinholes, visible at 3 meters (10 feet) shall not be acceptable in within the normal viewing area.

General – Vision Glazing.

Any other defects in the viewing area that are not readily visible at 3 meters (10 feet) shall be acceptable. Any imperfections in the coating within 10 mm (3/8 inches) of the edge of the lite shall be acceptable.

Unacceptable defects in glass units must be reported within a month of delivery / pickup, and the defective unit must be returned, with the defect circled with permanent marker on the glass. Please note that this does not apply to cracked glass, or scratches on the exterior of the windowpanes, which must be noted on the shipping papers at time of delivery / pickup.
